Presentations:

Data Driven Prosecution– Pam Metzger

Commissioner Dr. Garcia introduced the presenter, Pam Metzger, and read her bio.

Pam Metzger began the presentation by giving a brief description of the Deason Center Expertise. She explains the three main areas of expertise: right to counsel, STAR (small tribal and rural) Justice and prosecutorial discretion. She continues to clarify that all three areas have common ground, have a data focused evidence-based approach that is transparent and are involved in a feedback loop. Ms. Metzger stated that their interest is in understanding what is happening and in measuring and evaluating what the changes mean. She continues to explain, the observed information is then utilized to set benchmarks and move forward with improvements. Emphasizing on the priority to build transparent criminal legal systems.

Ms. Metzger continued and reported two core areas. The first being the Dallas Project. It studies what the Dallas DAs Office is actively doing, specifically looking at Judge Cruzeot's policies on marijuana enforcement and prosecution. In addition to how they affect things like racial equity in the criminal legal system. This was an agreement with the Deason Center, to share the DA's data for analyzation that in return allows the DA's office to make data informed decisions. They can use Deason Center's analysis to guide their policies, practices and other work.

Ms. Metzger reported the Deason Center has also studied screening and charging in mid-sized jurisdictions. Their goal is to look for best practices available. They have also evaluated turnaround time, specifically how long it takes to get from the submission of a case by police to actual indictment. Custodial status of people during that time interval has also been observed. In conjunction with racial ethnic and/or gender disparities, all with the intent of helping the offices. She expressed their mission and goal to understand data acquired from the DA's office is so that they can make data informed decisions and share that data with other stakeholders.

Ms. Metzger reported on the Measures for Justice Dashboard used in Yolo County, California. She explained, Yolo County has been able to build a dashboard that reflects how many cases are being prosecuted and/or rejected. The dashboard also displays how many cases have been diverted before charges. The data is being used for two purposes; to inform the prosecutor's office on where resources need to be allocated and to inform anyone online. The dashboard is currently a work in progress, but nonetheless, offers a rich level of transparency. She further expresses that although the transparency in the data is positive, there are limitations to what it cannot do. She further detailed it by sharing how on one hand, the data tells us how long things are taking but it limits us by its inability to explain why it's taking so long. The data also fails to answer whether the time spent is good or bad.

Ms. Metzger stated that there are lots of benefits to systemic transparency. A positive takeaway being the ability to show taxpayers how funds are being allocated. The community can see prosecutorial priorities in the example of prosecution, this could also be true for any other stakeholder organizations. Transparency makes for data driven choices, in other words, if people in the criminal legal system can look and see what's going on upstream of them or downstream. It allows them to make rational decisions about how to allocate their scarce resources. They know what conversations to be having, for example about the likely implications of certain policies. As a result, the transparency in data isn't just a set of numbers dumped on somebody's desk but instead it's numbers with context that serve a purpose beyond just showing the public.

Ms. Metzger closed by emphasizing on the importance of making sure that the broader system is well informed and capable of making data informed decisions about their own practices. She then proceeded to open the floor for questions.

Committee Project Updates:

Criminal Justice Administration & Jail Population Management Update:

LaShonda Jefferson gave the update. The Jail Population committee meeting was held on March 11, 2022; excerpts from that packet can be found on pages 15 through 22 of the CJAB packet. The jail population for today is 5,627. The Criminal Justice Department continues to collaborate with stakeholders to manage our jail population. The February 2022 average jail population was 5,648 and our yearly average so far is 5,595.

Fair Defense Committee:

Lynn Richardson gave the update on their initiatives. Funding was received through the American Rescue Plan Act to hire additional staff, i.e., attorney, investigators, paralegals, and support staff, to work on the backlog of cases that were caused due to COVID. This committee is meeting with judges to find out their policies and procedures to coordinate these efforts. It was reported that getting space for the backlog courts is one of the challenges. Mr. Gordon Hikel shared that the District Attorney's office is going to vacate space to make room for the backlog operation.

Justice of the Peace:

Judge Steve Seider gave the update. Judge Seider reported on the progress of the court management system and issues that have surfaced with the data conversion. Judge Seider stated they are actively working on cases that have been filed and using personnel from the court to complete these tasks.

Law Enforcement/Jurisprudence:

Ellyce Lindberg gave the update. The Law Enforcement/Jurisprudence subcommittee did not meet during the first quarter. One of the important things coming up is the implementation of HB766 in which the Sheriff's Department is currently working on in order to create a new process to address HB766.

Pretrial:

Jeff Segura gave the update. The Pretrial subcommittee has a meeting scheduled for March 29, 2022. Pretrial Services has filled their three new positions, a trainer and two ELM tech. More information to be shared on next CJAB meeting.

Reentry:

Christina Crain gave the update. Dr. Crain reported the annual Texas Re-Entry Symposium for 2022 will be held September the 27th. Dr. Crain also reported the creation of an employment council. This council is composed of employers that are background friendly and hire those with criminal backgrounds. Dr. Crain stated they are working hard to provide some tools to employers and looking into ways to help them legislatively.

Research:

Dr. Jennifer Gonzalez was not able to attend today's meeting. An update was not provided.

Program Update:Local Data Advisory Board:

Ellyce Lindberg gave the update. The LDAB continues to meet biweekly. They are currently working with a lot of different stakeholders, looking at different cases to find out what the issue is, and why the arrest hasn't been closed. They are currently at 86.47% and need 1,254 dispositions to get to 90%. The deadline for 90% compliance is August 1st, 2022.

House Bill 766:

Ellyce Lindberg gave the update. The House Bill 766 became effective in January of 2022 and it involves notification to happen when information comes in on violent offenses or family violence offenses. It puts a duty upon the magistrate to communicate with the sheriff to get certain information in the database system. Chief Bryan Sylvester reported having email conversations with all the Chiefs in Dallas County, about the importance of this law and how they can assist with ensuring they provide appropriate information. Judge Autry reported magistrates are complying with House Bill 766 and emphasized the importance of collecting as much information as possible.

Public Comments:

Announcements:

The next CJAB meeting will be held on June 27, 2022, at 2:30pm.

Dallas County Criminal Justice Advisory Board Pretrial Committee Minutes for Tuesday, March 29, 2022

Committee Chair Commissioner Dr. Elba Garcia called the meeting to order at 10:05 am. The following committee members were present: Duane Steele, Jeff Segura, Miguel Canales, Judge Stephanie Huff, Brooks Love, Faith Dingas, and Dr. Ronica Watkins.

Pretrial Update:

A. Judges Letter/ Pretrial Response

Judges voice concerns via correspondence to Pretrial Services. Mr. Steele, responds to the letter from the judges and also attends meeting with the Judges. The Judges voiced a couple of concerns, primarily focused on absconders and high caseloads. The judges suggested making caseloads 25:1 or 30:1. Judges were also informed some adjustments have taken place in Pretrial Services regarding how ELM defendants are supervised; however, no changes have been officially made to the policy. The policy is being revised to reflect those changes.

B. ELM Update

Judge Huff stated that the letter sent to Mr. Steele was in response to the findings from the internal audit done under Javed Sayed, former CSCD director. The audit reflected that the best ELM officer supervision happened when each officer monitored 25-30 people. Currently, each Pretrial officer is monitoring 60-70 clients—double the recommended amount. This naturally raises concerns for the judges, primarily from a safety standpoint because they are releasing clients to ELM to be adequately monitored. Those concerns led judges to make this request. During the COVID pandemic, there was a push to release an abundance of clients from jail. Some clients that would not typically be released, were released in hopes that ELM was monitoring them properly.

Commissioner Garcia asked the committee to address the Judges' concerns and Pretrial needs. Mr. Steele reported a comfortable ratio is 40:1 if additional staff is on boarded. After conducting an internal review the ratio of 40:1 would be manageable for his team.

Mr. Steele presented the expansion of Pretrial Services ELM from Jan 2020 to December 2021 through a visual diagram. It reflected substantial growth. There are currently no guidelines and/or restrictions for what program from Pretrial the Judges gets to choose for a client. However, judges understand that ELM is the highest level of supervision in the department and often opt for this option. Usually influenced by the history of a client and the nature of the offense.

Mr. Steele suggested the 90-day compliance review be adopted. This review allows clients in full compliance to be removed from ELM and/or supervised by General Pretrial. Adopting this approach would allowed a positive outcome for Pretrial and the courts, as they resolve cases.

Judge Huff reiterated the request for a 25:1 ratio with anticipation of a summer spike. Suggesting the summer spike will bring Pretrial officer more cases to supervise. Mr. Steele proceeded to explain the stats of current ELM officers, emphasizing that with additional staff a 40:1 ratio is manageable. New policies and procedures have been implemented since Mr. Steele became director, and audits are conducted to observe where improvements are necessary. Through these audits, they can identify specific areas where staff needs further training. A new position was approved and added to the training unit to provide this support. Mr. Steele further explained that an internal review was conducted and it was determined that a 40:1 ratio was appropriate, Judge Huff concurred.

C. Space needs

Pretrial has challenges with space. The expansion of Pretrial has the department divided into two floors. There is not enough desks for all officer on the first floor to move to eighth floor. Their request is to maintain the first floor. Mr. Steele reported the short-term need is to support the telecommute capability due to the limited space.

D. Sentinel Costs

Pretrial Services provided a graph that shows County Pay Sentinel Fees has steadily increased since FY2014 and drastically increased in FY2021.

Pretrial Staffing Update:

Pretrial Services has hired two ELM techs and a trainer since the last CJAB meeting. These individuals are currently in training. Pretrial has asked for twelve positions, including 10 ELM officers, a supervisor, and a trainer. Pretrial Services is requesting ARP funding, if eligible. The addition of 10 ELM officer will bring caseload rations down to 40:1.
